Become an O.C. Marsh Fellow and join a group of individuals who share a commitment to natural history and the desire to establish a meaningful association with the Yale Peabody Museum of Natural History.

Membership at all levels confers the designation of Fellow. Through their good will and generosity, Fellows have long been recognized as a core group of Peabody supporters.

Rising from the island of Borneo, Mount Kinabalu (4096 meters a.s.l.) is one of the highest mountains in Southeast Asia. It is home to a rich flora and a diverse array of habitats, ranging from lowland tropical rain forest at its base to sub-alpine vegetation near the summit. Photo by Patrick Sweeney.
